'Not in Agreement with Trai View'

▸▸ From Page 1

The US company, in its petition, said that the rule under the IT Act violates the fundamental right to freedom of speech and expression as it "chills even lawful speech". Twitter, too, on Thursday expressed concerns over the new IT guidelines and said it was worried about its employees and the potential threat to freedom of expression, after the Delhi Police went to its offices to serve a notice.

The government, on its part, has asserted that it is committed to protecting privacy and preserving free speech.

DoT officials say the comments from the home ministry were sought before this week's spats between the government and the companies. "...we weren't in agreement with Trai's recommendation (on not regulating OTT communication platforms)", said an official.

The official said there is a need for communication apps to provide law enforcement agencies information required for national security matters, like operators are mandated by their licence conditions.

"The IT Act doesn't have much teeth and is not equipped to deal with such issues. Therefore, this needs to be brought under (telecom) licensing," said the official. "Currently, telcos have to maintain call data records and if there is any suspicious or anti-national element whose calls need to be monitored, that can be done prospectively. However, in case of a WhatsApp call, all we have is one IP address... that's it, nothing else."
