ICSE & ISC exams to be held from July 1 to 14

TIMES NEWS NETWORK
Mumbai: Putting an end to uncertainty, the Council for the Indian School Certificate Examinations (CISCE) board on Friday announced the pending ICSE and ISC exams will be held from July 1 to 14. The board had postponed the exams in March when Covid-19 cases began to rise. The board said it would be mandatory for all students to wear masks, carry sanitizers and maintain social distance when they appear for papers. The board has asked schools to ensure there is a staggered entry and exit of candidates. The detailed exam schedule has been uploaded on the board website—www.cisce.org. Schools in the city, though, are worried. "With the number of cases in Maharashtra, and especially Mumbai, it would be worrisome to expect students to come for an exam. Several schools are also being used by the BMC as Covid care centres. We hope the board reviews the situation closer to the new exam dates," said a school principal. For ISC students, exams for eight papers remain and ICSE six. A petition on Change.org demanded that the council not conduct exams. It got over 28,000 signatures till night.

Rly passengers to be quarantined for 14 days, local flyers to be screened
International Air Travellers May Be Isolated For Up To 28 Days

Prafulla Marpakwar & Vijay V Singh | TNN
Mumbai: Soon, railway passengers arriving in the city from other states will be home quarantined for 14 days even if they do not show any Covid-19 symptoms. If found to have symptoms, the passengers will be sent on institutional quarantine. Domestic flyers will undergo routine thermal screening on arrival and will be quarantined if they show any symptoms. If a flyer is expected to stay in Mumbai for a few days, he or she will have to submit an address proof. These are part of the new protocol for rail and air travel the BMC is expected to announce in a day or two, considering that domestic flights will resume operations from May 25 and trains from June 1. All passengers arriving by trains will undergo thermal screening at stations. "If a passenger is arriving from another state, he or she will be quarantined for 14 days, whether they have any symptoms or otherwise," a senior bureaucrat told TOI. Meanwhile, the BMC has also tweaked the rules for international air travellers flying into the city through Vande Bharat Mission flights. They will be put under institutional quarantine in hotels for 14 days and thereafter in home quarantine for a similar duration. The flyers will undergo tests seven to 12 days after their arrival and if found negative, they will be allowed to leave with a 14-day home quarantine stamp on their wrists. Those who are asymptomatic but test positive will be discharged from institutional quarantine only after they test negative. BMC's executive health officer Padmaja Kesarkar said, "The decision has been taken in accordance with central government guidelines." Around 2,350 international flyers who arrived in Mumbai were quarantined.

3 sneak into temple lake to fish, 1 drowns

Makadwale vasahat. They were picked up from their relatives' houses in Sangli, and they led the police to the other 16 waiting in the fields for alternative transport. "The 20 denied having entered illegally but could not produce travel passes or show any home quarantine stamp. Their swab samples have been collected," Pawar said. Sangli district collector Abhijeet Chaudhary said it was surprising that the bus managed to travel this far without a pass. "Also, how they managed to leave Mumbai is a big question. Such irresponsible behaviour by people is putting a lot of pressure on the system, which is trying to contain the spread of the virus," he added. Mumbai: A man drowned in a lake in Nalasopara on Friday, where he was fishing with his minor son and their neighbour, who are missing. Firemen fished out the body of Shanu Shinwar (35) from a lake on a temple's premises in Nalmore, Nalasopara (W). An accidental death case was registered. The search for Shinwar's son Durvesh (15) and their neighbour Sumedh Khandare (25), who had jumped into the water to rescue Shinwar, is on. Pumps are being used to flush the water out to help the search. The temple gate was locked, and the three locals had snuck in to fish. Around 11am on Friday, Shinwar entered the water. When there was no sign of him for 10 minutes, Durvesh and Khandare jumped in. Eyewitnesses raised an alarm when all three could not be seen.

Domestic flight tickets see slow takeoff

TIMES NEWS NETWORK
Mumbai: Day One of opening of domestic air travel bookings from May 25 saw a tepid response, and tickets for most routes were available throughout the day at reasonable fares. The fares are capped and so these won't be exorbitantly high for the next three months till August 24. According to the new rules, airlines have to sell 40% seats at a fare that is lower than the mid-point of the rate band. For instance, on the Mumbai-Delhi route, fare is capped between Rs 3,500 and Rs 10,000 and the mid-point is Rs 6,700 (the fares do not include taxes and fees such as passenger development fee and GST). On Friday evening, almost 24 hours after bookings for May flights opened (prior to that tickets for travel from June 1 were only available), the cheapest Mumbai-Delhi ticket for travel on May 25 was priced at Rs 6,300 (taxes included) for a 5.30am Air India flight. One could also buy an 8.40am AirAsia flight for Rs 7,400, which is a fare just above the mid-range, since it includes taxes. Mumbai-Delhi flights that crossed Rs 10,000 were those that departed 6.30 am onwards. "Had the demand been high, most morning departures would have sold out and those for late evening would have touched the Rs 10,000 mark. If the fares haven't crossed the mid-point band, it means less than 40% tickets have been sold on that particular flight," said a travel agent. Travel portals, though, said they had received "an overwhelming response" on nearly all metro routes. Dhruv Shringi of yatra.com said, "Bookings today are trending at almost 40% of pre-Covid levels."

PRs opens for 200 long distance trains

Mumbai: People follow social distancing norms at Kalyan Passenger Reservation System (PRS), which opened for 200 long distance trains on Friday. The temple gate was locked, and the three locals had snuck in to fish. Around 11am on Friday, Shinwar entered the water. When there was no sign of him for 10 minutes, Durvesh and Khandare jumped in. Eyewitnesses raised an alarm when all three could not be seen.

Free Taj meal deal ends, civic body, hospitals scurry to feed docs, nurses

Yogita Rao & Reeba Zachariah | TNN
Mumbai: As the last truck of Tata Trust delivering food pulled out of KEM Hospital on Tuesday, several healthcare workers expressed their gratitude by clapping. Taj Public Service Welfare Trust, a philanthropic arm of the Indian Hotels Company, has offered more than three lakh meals to the frontline healthcare workers at seven city Covid-19 hospitals since March 23. As the agreement with the trust for providing meal boxes came to an end after two months, the BMC scurried to arrange meals for its medical staff in the coming days. Worried about BMC's arrangements for their next meals, the resident doctors have also decided to chip in. While the hospitals are trying to get their canteens fully functional, representatives of the Maharashtra Association of Resident Doctors (MARD) are trying to reach out to NGOs and alternative sources. Though the BMC never provided free meals for their resident doctors and nursing staff, after the Covid-19 outbreak and the subsequent lockdown, tiffin services were disrupted. At hospitals, canteens and messes were shut after their staff tested positive. "Even as a few canteens were running with limited manpower for some time, many workers left after the special trains were started. Our food committee is trying to look for options like the Tata Trust," said a resident doctor from Nair Hospital. The hospital will have to arrange round 1,400 meals for both lunch and dinner in the next two days. Mohan Joshi, dean of Nair Hospital, said that they are trying to get the canteens operational soon. At Sion Hospital, the MARD has managed to get help from a gurudwara in Chembur. "While the finer details are yet to be worked out with the dean, they have agreed to provide lunch and dinner to resident doctors, who need around 1,000 meal boxes," said a representative. "We are grateful to the Taj Group for their selfless service. We did not have to worry about food during the two months of pandemic. Now we are trying to get in touch with NGOs for a similar service. The hospital administration is also making arrangements," said a resident doctor. The Taj Public Service Welfare Trust, which is a philanthropic arm of the Tata Group, has offered over 1.5 million meals in the country post the Covid-19 outbreak.

BEST 'shields' its staff as cases rise

Mumbai: Face shields will be given to BEST bus conductors after 20 staff tested positive for Covid-19, the highest in a single day, as the total number of cases rose to 176 on Friday. Association president Arvind Miskin said currently there was no plan to join hands with e-commerce platforms as such a move might lead to customers having to pay more. All other steps to contain the coronavirus outbreak remain in force, which means all malls, markets and complexes would remain closed. Only shops selling essential goods in markets and complexes would be permitted. Sumit Chawala, a liquor vendor association vice-president and a shop owner, said they had no intention of tying up with e-commerce chains as retailers had the staff and infrastructure. "It will be like snatching their bread and butter if we tie-up," he said. A May 12 order of the state government that had allowed home delivery suggested that tippers may ask for liquor—barring country liquor—to be delivered to their home address from retail shops in their neighbourhood during the period of lockdown. In many cities, the facility came into effect a week ago. Only the city and Aurangabad were awaiting endorsement from their respective municipal commissioners. The government permission for liquor sales had given the impression that orders for purchase should be placed only through phone calls or messages. Later, the detailed guidelines suggested that e-commerce platforms would be allowed to tie up with retailers and wholesalers, indicating a shift to an online mechanism. The home delivery system promises prevention of crowding at liquor shops. Liquor sale will help the excise ministry meet its revenue targets. Excise officials pegged the losses in March and April at Rs 1,800 crore.

'Have staff for delivery, will not tie up with e-commerce chains'

95-yr-old out of hosp & on his feet in 5 days

Mumbai: On Wednesday night, residents of Kalyan Building in Charni Road broke into an applause as an ambulance pulled into their lane. Coming home was their 95-year-old neighbour Purshottam Shah, who had been discharged from Bhatia Hospital in just five days after he had tested positive for Covid-19. The hospital has conducted a repeat test and the report is awaited. "The nonagenarian and his 93-year-old wife Sushila, who have no children, have been living in the third-floor apartment for over five decades. Even during the lockdown, he continued to step out to buy essentials. "Since our building doesn't have a lift, he would use the stairs. However, he hadn't stepped out since May 1. Last week, he complained about stomach ache and fever so I asked our doctor who suggested we run some tests. The X-ray indicated he had developed pneumonia and would have to be hospitalsed," said Mahesh Malhar, his neighbour. Shah was admitted to the Tardeo hospital on the night on May 15. "The patient had fever and his oxygen levels were lower than normal. He tested positive for Covid-19. We soon began medication and gave him oxygen support. He showed significant improvement in just three days. The chest X-ray was better, the fever had gone and he was off the oxygen support on day five. While we would have liked him to stay for a bit longer, he insisted that he missed his home. Since he was feeling much better, was asymptomatic and could isolate himself at home, we discharged him on May 20," said Dr Jeenan Shah, chest physician and interventional pulmonologist. While people over the age of 60 are considered as high risk, Dr Shah said a few things worked in the nonagenarian's favour: "One's immunity isn't quantifiable, but he had no major comorbidities, kept fit with daily walks and climbing three floors twice a day and had great willpower. The first day I met him, he told me he was sure to recover. He was also brought to the hospital well in time, which is critical," he added. Back home, the Shas are getting by with help from the neighbours. "Fortunately, his wife has no symptoms and hence most likely not infected. But we check on them every few hours," said Malhar.
