Dhankhar's village in Rajapur in joy

The 10,000 households of Dhankhar’s village in the Chunnambar area are in a jubilant mood today. The last time they had received the news of a holding of land for the first time was in 1966. But the news today is not just about getting hold of land; it is about getting a share in the country’s future. The village has been selected for the “Model Village” project under the National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (NREGA).

The village, which has a population of around 10,000, has been chosen for the project because of its exemplary performance in implementing the act. The project aims to provide job guarantees to rural workers and increase the productivity of the village.

The villagers are excited about the prospects of their village being transformed into a model village. They hope that the project will not only improve their livelihoods but also give them a sense of pride.
