Annexure VI – System Requirements

This Annexure VI to this RFP contains information regarding system requirements over and above the requirements specified in Section 4 of this RFP. In case of any conflict between the provisions of this Annexure VI to this RFP and the provisions of Section 4 of this RFP, each Bidder is hereby requested to consider the provisions of Section 4 of this RFP as appropriate.

a. Java

Java Platform/Applet is used for Digital Signature generation, verification. Under Windows, the browsers will usually, but not always, have Java enabled by default. Supporting installable files for e bidding process would be available on the home page for the users to download along with its instructions. Please note that appropriate administrative rights may be required in order to install supporting tool available on the Bidding Platform and Digital Signature Certificate (DSC) on the Bidder's computer. A Bidder should ensure that its computer is free from viruses, especially key-logging programs. It is the responsibility of each Bidder to ensure that computer is functioning reliably and that appropriate computer security measures are in force. Once the DSC that authenticates the Bidder has been installed on the computer, the Bidder should ensure that the computer is kept secure and not accessible by unauthorized personnel.

b. Tool bar/ Add-On/ Pop up blocker

A Bidder should ensure that there is no software installed on its computers that might interfere with the normal operation of its Internet browser. Each Bidder should ensure that it does not use any pop-up blockers, such as those provided by Internet Explorer and complementary software (e.g. the Google tool bar).

c. Power Management Settings

To ensure that a Bidder does not face any delay or difficulty in accessing the Bidding Platform, it is recommended that a Bidder: a) turns off any power management features on its computer such as automatic hibernation or suspension; and b) disables any screensavers. If a Bidder's computer hibernates or suspends automatically, it will need to go through the login procedures again when the computer is awakened. This will cause some delay in returning to the Bidding Platform.

d. Access of other Software / Website during Bidding

It is recommended that a Bidder does not open other web pages when it is accessing the Bidding Platform. Viewing other web pages (especially complex ones) while accessing the Bidding Platform increases the risk of possible problems with its browser. Therefore, it is recommended that each Bidder should dedicate one computer to run the Bidding, and not to utilize such designated computer to access other web pages or run other platforms. This will help to minimize the risk of crashes or other potential problems.

e. Internet Connection

To access the Bidding Platform, a Bidder will need an Internet connection. We recommend that a Bidder use a reliable broadband Internet connection with a download bandwidth of 1MBPS or higher. Wireless connections may be adequate, but it is important that the latency of network connections to the Bidding does not exceed 20-30 seconds to ensure reliable access. It is recommended that a Bidder has a back-up computer and backup Internet connection that can be used if either its primary computer or Internet connection fails.

f. Display

A Bidder is recommended to use a display with a screen resolution of 1366 X 768. A Bidder can use a lower screen resolution, but it may find that some tables are difficult to view.

g. Bidding Platform backup Facilities

If the main server fails, the Bidding will be resumed using backup facilities. The normal process for this would be the following:

(i) mjunction would advise all Bidders directly of the need to switch to the back-up system and the time from which the back-up facility should be expected to be online and available to all Bidders.

(ii) If the primary server remains available, a Bidder would be required to log out normally. Otherwise, a Bidder would be advised to close its Internet Explorer browser.

(iii) Once the back-up facilities are online, all eligible Bidders will be duly advised by mjunction regarding the Bidding.
